Joseph Lihos began his dance training at the age of ten in Staunton, Virginia before relocating to Salt Lake City, Utah. He trained under Jeff Rogers for two years at Ballet West Academy where he gained notable scholarships such as the Shari Quinney Scholarship. There he greatly enjoyed performing in strong acting roles, such as an Rothbart in Swan Lake, Dr. Coppelias in Coppelia, and Don Quixote in Don Quixote as well as performing in William Christiansen's The Nutcracker, Paquita, Ramonda, and Sleeping Beauty. He has also performed in more contemporary works such as "Prelude for Five Pieces". Joseph Lihos is currently working with Huntsville Ballet Company.
